

Reincarnation and Karma

Though it is generally supposed that when children are born into this world new Souls come into the family to be thought for, provided for and trained, know ye this that when new lives come, they are old Souls coming into new lives for manifestation through new vehicles for service. They are old Souls re-garmented with an earthly body for new experiences or purposes of manifestation.

The age of a Soul, when once its consciousness becomes operative, is revealed in what it senses.

The child's world is all around it. The Soul who is more than a little child, has a larger world. And as consciousness deepens and expands within it, its world goes on enlarging from more to more. It can feel more. It can receive more. It acquires the power to bear more. It can travail more. It can sorrow more profoundly. It can rejoice with the joy of one who is as a giant in spiritual estate. It is thus that consciousness as manifesting on these planes, has grown through great ages as Souls of men and women have come and gone; come back to learn, and gone again to have the fruitage of the ages up-gathered into the granary of their Being, the value of which will be manifested and revealed when they return again.

Extract from 'The Continuity of Consciousness' by John Todd Ferrier, pages 13-14

...In everything but the history of a Human Soul, the mind of man seems to believe that the great things have taken ages to become manifest, but when it comes to the Human Soul, which is the greatest thing of all, ...they think that the Soul began with the human birth of this life.

We are all plants in the Garden of God. As such, our Life must be cultured until the Eternal Bloom becomes manifest. We all have something of God in us. The Mystery of Deity has to be brought up by us through the soil of our experience; and even in an unfallen world, that takes ages upon ages. For, whilst a Soul is growing it is learning. Its vision is expanding its experience deepening. It becomes more and more exalted as it continues its processional, until the Son of God within crowns it as a full-grown Planetary Child. And so it grows beyond the mortal state and passes on to the Immortal consciousness and manifestation.

Therefore, Karma was as Destiny in the unfallen days. There was nothing associated with it of the nature of evil such as the Eastern term implies for many today. What the Soul has accumulated for itself, it must needs bear the burden of. But there need not be evil present.

An Earth-Child in the degree of its understanding, must learn to be Righteous, Upright, Equitable, Balanced. If it does unrighteously, it must learn to do righteously; if it has been unbalanced and hurt another through it, it has to learn how to be equipoised, and also how to heal the hurt it has imposed. It must be restored, and it must restore. If this cannot be done in one life, then it must carry the service into the next. It may take three or four generations.

In His Love HE veils your past from you until you can recover it, look upon it, and see its meaning without hurt to yourself or hurt to others.
